Week In The Life Of SFA

A WEEK IN THE LIFE OF SFA

A "Week In The Life of SFA" is designed to serve as a scrapbook for all of us. Photographers from Communication 303,405 and Art 317 along with our very own Stone Fort staff were chosen to take assigned feature photos during the week of September 30 through October 5. Many thanks to Mr. Hunter and Dr. Roach for all of their assistance with the Stone Fort's first "Week In The Life" section. Each photographer's assignment was strategically planned to represent what SFA students do during a typical week.

Of course, since we all do different things, it is hoped that as you look through these photographs both today and many years from now you will remember what life was like here in the "oldest town in Texas."

We hope you enjoy our innovative approach to remembering "the best years of our lives". Welcome to a "Week In The Life Of SFA."

Graves Ends 28-year Link With SFA

Head football coach Lynn Graves resigned yesterday following an announcement that his contract would not be renewed at the end of the season.

Graves, in his third year as head coach turned down an offer to continue to coach the Lumberjacks through the remainder of this season.

According to Men's Athletic Director Steve McCarty, defensive coordinator Phil Bounds will direct the team through the remainder of the 1991 schedule.

Bounds is in his second year as Lumberjack defensive coordinator and his third season on the SFA staff. He came to SFA after two seasons as defensive coordinator at Trinity Valley Community College and six years at Colorado State University, as defensive coordinator.

Prior to joining Colorado State, Bounds spent two seasons as an assistant coach at The University of Texas at Austin. He also coached at the high school level. Bounds holds a bachelor's and a master's degrees from Northeast Louisiana University.

Prior to the upset victory over Sam Houston State University, the Jacks had beaten only an NAIA opponent, University of Arkansas-Monticello, before losing six consecutive games this season. Following the Sam Houston game, the Lumberjacks were in last place in the Southland Conference with three conference games remaining. They lost the remaining three.

Announcement of the coaching change was made right away "in the best interests of the university and so as not to lose time in the recruiting season," said McCarty.

The search for a replacement "will begin immediately," Vice President for University Affairs Dr. Baker Patillo said.

Graves, a native of Carthage, began his career at SFA 28 seasons ago as a player and became a three-year letterman for the Jacks as an offensive guard from 1962-65. Since then Graves has been a graduate assistant coach, assistant coach, defensive coordinator and assistant head coach before becoming SFA's 14th head coach following the 1988 season.

In his first season as head coach, the Jacks won their first outright conference title in school history by winning the 1989 Southland Conference championship. He became the first SFA coach to take his team to the I-AA title game. Last season the Jacks posted a 1-10 record.

Graves said there was some opposition when he took over and he believes it's the same opposition that cost him his job.

"I was caught in some circumstances," Graves said. "Somebody up there (Board of Regents) didn't like what I was doing."

"A number of people felt we needed to bring in a new football coach to push the program forward," Chairman of the Board of Regents Kelly Jones said. "It is a dark day for Kelly Jones and a dark day for SFA but sometimes decisions have to be made in order to go forward."

Graves spoke to the team at practice after meeting with the Board of Regents.

"I told them they have come a long way and not to let this destroy what's happened so far," Graves said.

"I am going out after defeating the No. 5 team in the nation," Graves said.

Graves said the character of this team will continue to show. He said whoever gets this team is going to end up with a good team down the road.

"We're upset we lost a great man and a great coach," quarterback Mike Goddard, Allen sophomore said.

"As far as the team, our objective is to win the remaining games," Robert Sparks, Richardson senior said. "I was close to coach Graves. He made me a better person and a better player."

Update: John Pearce was named new head football coach for the SFA Lumberjacks. Coach Pearce came to SFA from Texas A&M.

SFA Receives $1.9 million Federal Grant

SFA has received a $1.9 million federal grant from the Office of Substance Abuse Prevention in the Department of Health and Human Services in order to further the battle against drug and alcohol abuse in the Nacogdoches community.

U. S. Sen. Phil Gramm visited the University Sunday to award the grant and to discuss the role of the University and the community in this program. The grant will involve a cooperative effort between the University and the Nacogdoches community under a Community Coalition Partnership Program.

"Only now are we learning to use our great universities. We once viewed universities as isolated places people go to learn," said Sen. Gramm. "I'm convinced that universities are capable of doing more. They are capable of being engines for economic development.

"We now have a university in a community that is taking community leadership."

University President Donald E. Bowen said a drug and alcohol free atmosphere is essential to the University, and the college cannot exist isolated from the community.

"This University will continue to work as hard as it can to be a part of the community," said Dr. Bowen.

Sen. Gramm emphasized the importance of bringing the whole effort together in the community. "I really believe that here today we're focusing on a real piece of the puzzle. That is the education part," he said.

"The federal government is trying to find a way to bring people together to find their own solution."

Nacogdoches Mayor Judy MacDonald said the coalition will be an umbrella group for the city. "The problem was not going to be solved in Washington. It was not going to be solved in Austin. It's going to be solved in Nacogdoches," she said.

Programs will be designed and organized by Dr. Bruce Payette, associate professor of counseling and special educational programs. Dr. Payette has been reassigned and will be relieved of his teaching duties for five years in order to organize the program.

The University is responsible for administering the funds, and a community coalition, formed by various local groups and businesses, has been established to carry out the programs.

"The fact is this money is entrusted to us to work together with various community groups and the city to solve common problems related to alcohol and drug abuse," said Dr. Payette.

The goal of the program is to reduce the abuse of alcohol and drugs on a community wide basis. Dr. Payette said it is not a treatment grant.

"It is designed to help the community work together through education, public awareness and life-coping skills," he said. "It will provide alternatives for alcohol and drug use."

Dr. Payette's group will be a central clearinghouse for representatives to "find out what needs to be done."

Dr. Payette plans to combine good projects with good kids and have youth and adult groups pledge time to the program.

He hopes to implement a program with the Chamber of Commerce which will include bringing troubled high school students to area businesses and allowing them to spend time with the owners.

"People would rather be normal than healthy," he said. "Our message would be it's normal to get up, get an education and go to work."

Dr. Payette said this will be a grass-roots effort to combat substance abuse. "We have to look at grass-roots people," he said. "We will make the assumption there are bright intelligent people who could contribute.

"It is important to develop a talent pool of community people."

The program will also be responsible for developing community leaders. Four four-year scholarships will be given to individuals selected for assistance. The recipients will be required to work for the program at least 10 hours per week.

"At the end, they will get their bachelor's degree and will have worked for four years in our office. They now have the credibility to lead in the community," said Dr. Payette.

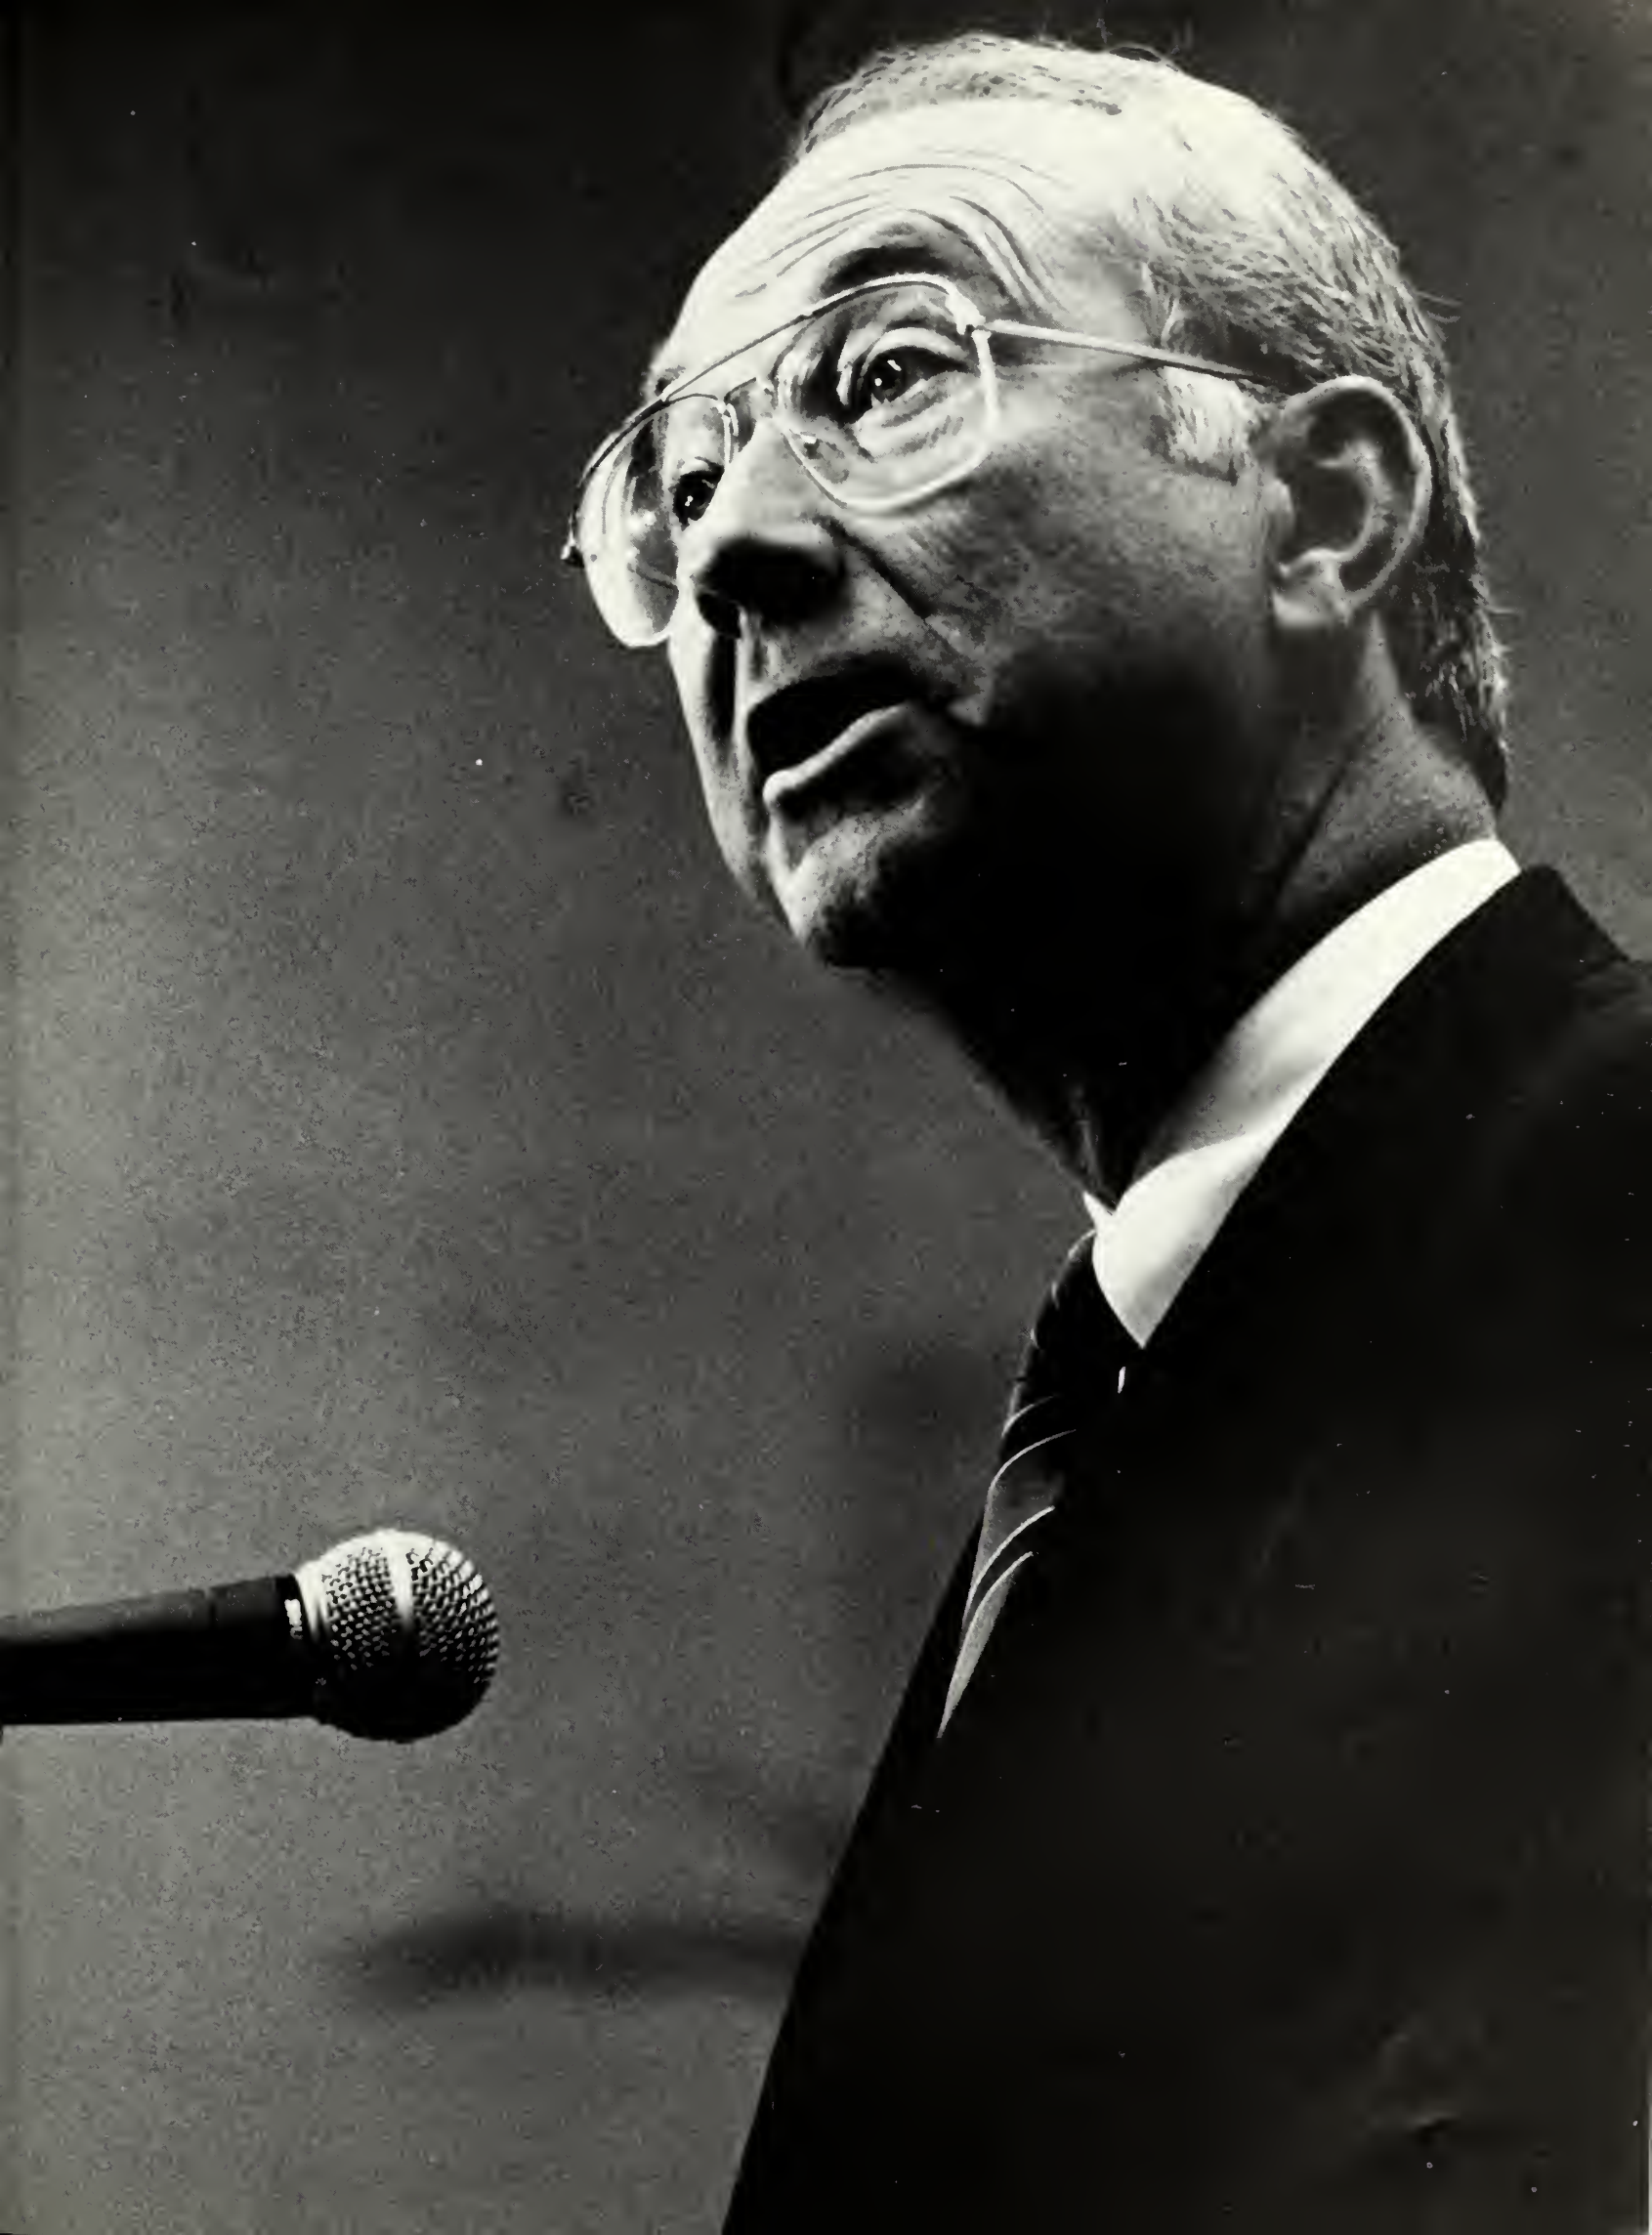

"By helping some people achieve a level of success, we will generate enthusiasm among people."

"Working together and taking pride in their school or community, that's the way people ought to be living," said Dr. Payette.

"We don't have all the answers but on a day-to-day basis, we're coming up with the pieces to the puzzle."

GREEKS

The background of the page is a marbled paper design. It features a dark, almost black, central circular area. Surrounding this center are intricate, branching, and crackle-like patterns in a light cream or off-white color. These patterns resemble veins in stone or the texture of aged parchment, creating a complex, organic visual field.

Department of Accounting

Dr. Sammie Smith

To meet the high demand for accountants, Dr. Sammie Smith, Chairman of the Accounting Department, says the department continues to grow. This year, the Accounting Department has 64+ majors - the highest number of majors at SFA. In compliance with the new Public Accounting Act, the department expects a new five-year accounting program to be approved by the state this year. Dr. Smith says SFA's Accounting Department is the optimum size - an important factor for a quality education. "Our Accounting program is large enough for a student to get an adequate degree, and at the same time, small enough to get personal attention from the faculty." Beta Alpha Psi, SFA's local accounting fraternity, won the National Beta Alpha Psi Superior Chapter Award for the third year in a row. More than 200 national chapters competed. The local chapter was awarded two $500 scholarships.

Department of Administrative Services

Dr. Betty Johnson

Dr. Betty Johnson, the chairman of the Department of Administrative Services, believes the faculty are "well qualified, committed to helping students, and active in both student and professional organizations." She says the department has continued to upgrade its hardware and software so that students use up-to-date technology. Current technology and software are used in the majority of the classes taught within the department. "The General Business major is the most versatile of all business majors," Dr. Johnson says. "It provides a broad-based business foundation and enables the student to select specific courses compatible with their career objectives."

Department of Agriculture

Tbompson

Dr. Leon Young

The Agriculture Department boasts of having the only arboretum at a university in Texas, says Dr. Leon Young, Chairman of the Agriculture Department. Agriculture majors can look forward to the following advantages and benefits: "the best poultry at a university in Texas, hands-on experiences with plants and animals, outstanding professors and outstanding job opportunities for graduates." This year, the department revised its entire undergraduate curriculum. Many existing courses were revised and combined with other classes earmarked for deletion. About 12 courses were added to the department's course inventory. The department is currently working to incorporate these changes into the requirements for majors in Animal Science, Agronomy, Ag Business, Ag Development, Horticulture and Ag Mechanization. "These changes will better equip our graduates for success in the various fields of agriculture in the 21st century," Young said.

Department of Art

Yates

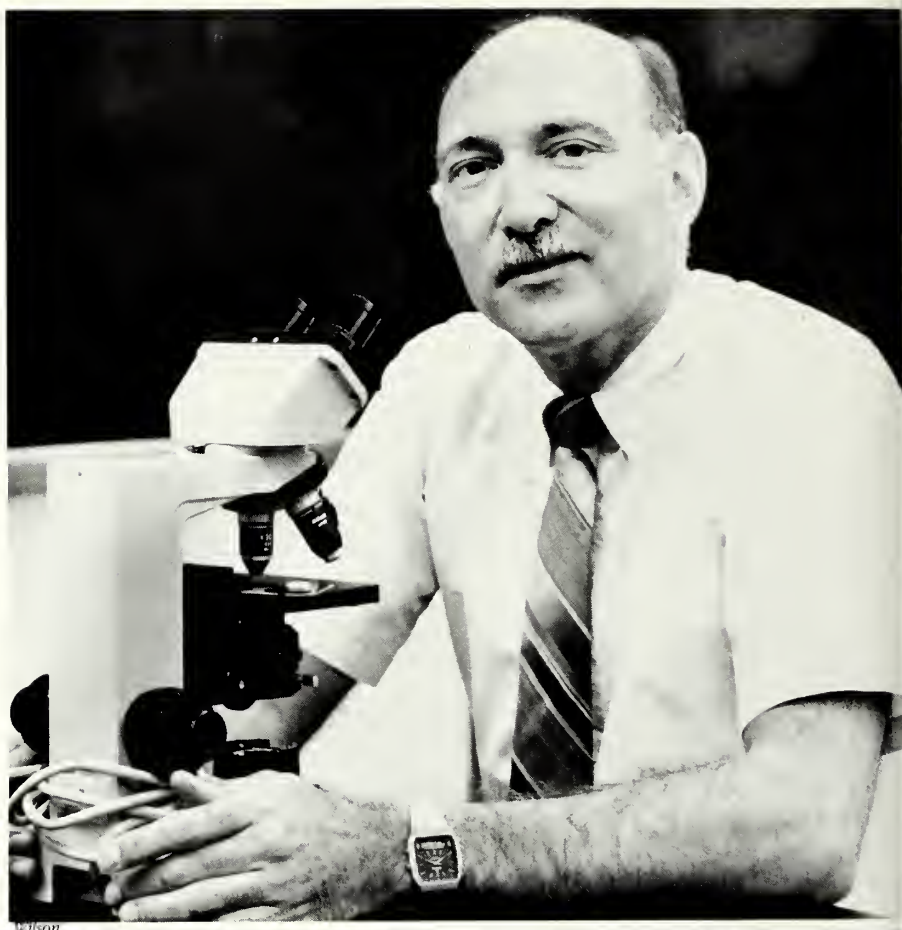

Dr. Jon Wink

Dr. Jon Wink, Chairman of the Department of Art, continues to work on improving the department. Within the past two years, the gallery program has undergone a renaissance under the direction of Mrs. Eloise Adams - the new gallery director. He said the department has also improved in the past several years in all areas: facilities, capital, equipment, and faculty relations. "I would hope that we will continue to improve faculty, programs, and facilities," Dr. Wink said. "I also think that the calescence, which is rapidly occurring in the fields of photography, cinematography, video and computer imagery, will have to be met with programmatic adjustments that are imaginative, creative, and effective." The Department of Art offers four plans of study for its majors. The goals of the department are to develop the student's knowledge and skill in the use of art fundamentals and to provide an education suitable for both producers and spectators of art.

Department of Biology

Dr. Don Hay

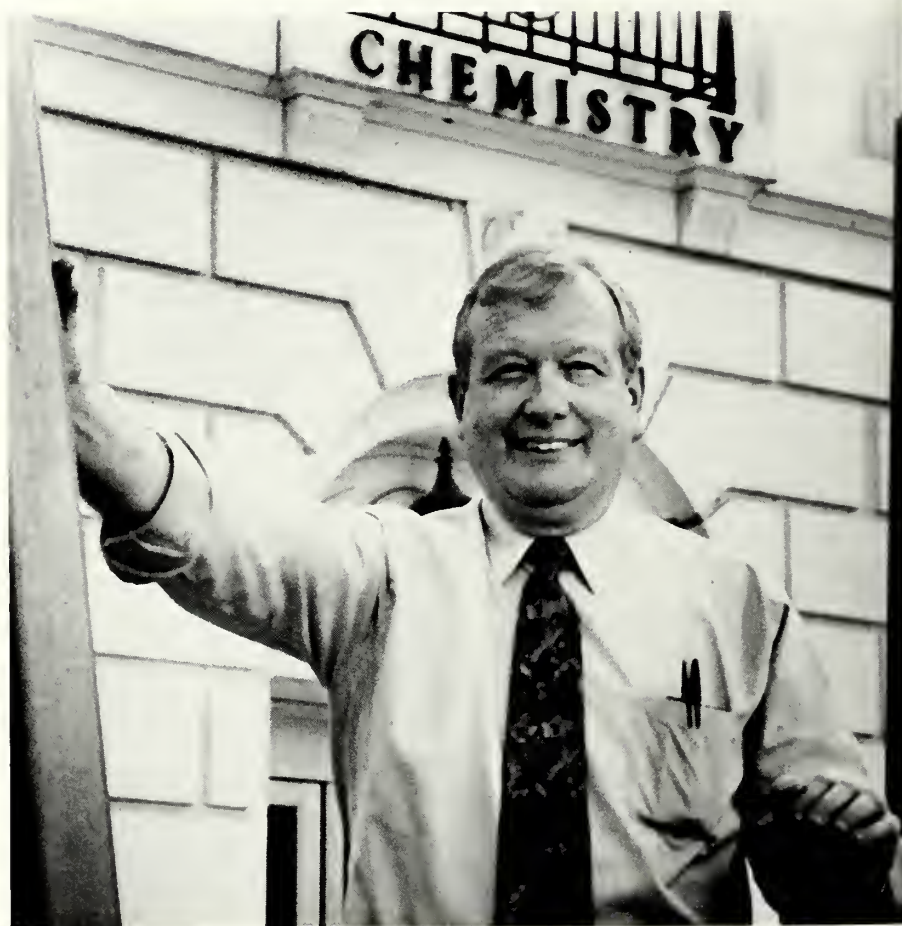

Dr. Don Hay, Chairman of the Department of Biology, credits the faculty as being the significant strength of the department. Several of the faculty members have been named Regent's Professors of Teaching Excellence, and Outstanding Faculty by the Student Government. The department has a three fold purpose: 1) to give students familiarity with the methods of science and the facts of biology; 2) to provide opportunity for a broad foundation in biology for professional work; and 3) to give basic training in several specialized areas.

Department of Chemistry

Dr. Wayne Boring

Dr. Wayne Boring, the chairman of the Chemistry Department, states that the Chemistry Department maintains a good track record of producing quality students. "At the present time, all of our former students who want to work are employed," Boring says. "They report that they enjoy job security and satisfaction." One reason for the department's successful turnout, Boring says, is because "students receive a considerable amount of individual attention and special instruction with chemical instrumentation." Dr. Boring believes there will be a shortage of chemists in this country. He says chemists can expect to earn higher starting salaries and find more job opportunities in industry, education, and government. With donations from Texas Eastman, Polysar, Union Carbide, the Chemistry Department has been able to upgrade its library and its instrumentation. In the near future, Dr. Boring plans to obtain more grants and contracts for students, build a new wing on the Chemistry Building, and provide analytical services for the university and the surrounding community.

Department of Communication

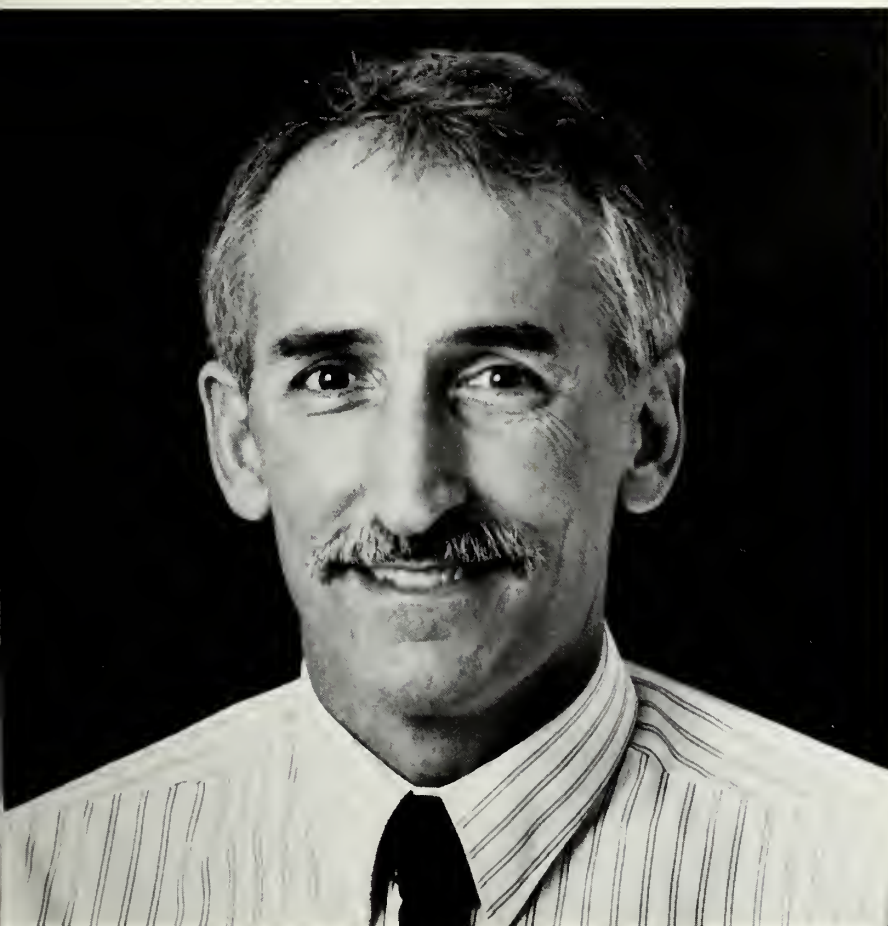

Dr. Robert Ramsey

Dr. Robert Ramsey, Chairman of the Communication Department, says the faculty places "teaching first and research second rather than the other way around." He said course instruction in the department is geared toward job skills and is enhanced by laboratories equipped with communication technologies. This year, several communication labs and KSAU, the school radio station, have converged back into the Boynton Building, which was remodeled. Also, SFA TV 2 is expected to go on the air this year, Dr. Ramsey says. Two full-time faculty members have been added to the department, and enrollment in the graduate program is larger than ever. Future goals for the department include more fund-raising efforts, seeking greater ties with the alumni and continuing to review and revise the curriculum.

Bryan

Department of Computer Science

Yates

Dr. Craig Wood

According to Dr. Craig Wood, Chairman of the Computer Science Department, personal attention from the Computer Science faculty gives the students an extra boost in learning "one of the most useful devices known to mankind" - the computer. Other special attributes of the department include the faculties' research and teaching qualities, and an expanded computer science curriculum. His goal this year is to place all the personal computer systems on the McGee network, and install a new network of Sun workstations running UNIX. The goal of the department is to broaden the graduate's knowledge of computer science sufficient to lay a foundation for professional competence in the computing field.

Department of Continuing Education

Dr. Leon Hallman

Dr. Leon Hallman, the Director of the Division of Continuing Education, wants to continue to broaden the spectrum of activities the department offers. Last year, the department was involved in 270 activities, which included 6,391 students. Although the Continuing Education Department doesn't grant degrees, the department does offer all non-academic credit activities for SFA such as conferences, seminars, workshops and short courses. The department is designed to assist the needs of professional societies, civic organizations, or individuals in planning continuing educational activities.

Bryan

Department of Counseling/Special Education

Dr. Richard Voigtel

Dr. Richard Voigtel, Chairman of the Counseling/Special Education Department, is pleased with the department's continued growth. He said the faculty has grown in number and qualifications. Also, state-of-the-art equipment has been purchased, and student enrollment has increased by 57 percent in the past four years. The future of the department is "unlimited" as more people elect to enter the "helping professions," Voigtel says. The department offers a diverse program designed for education professionals who want to work with people suffering from various kinds of disabilities. The department offers degrees in rehabilitation services, orientation and mobility, hearing impaired, or speech-language pathology.

Thompson

Department of Criminal Justice

Dr. John Harlan

The Criminal Justice Program is designed to prepare the student to become a practitioner in the field of Justice Administration which may include law enforcement, corrections (probation, prison and parole), court administration, private security and juvenile justice.

Department of Economics and Finance

Dr. Lynnette Solomon

The Department of Economics and Finance performs a valuable service in preparing future business and professional leaders to meet the challenge they will face in the years ahead. A student with a background in economics or finance is prepared for many interesting and rewarding careers in such fields as banking, insurance, real estate, investments, financial management, and research and analysis.

Department of Elementary Education

Dr. John Thornton

The Department of Elementary Education, headed by Dr. John Thornton, has led the state in offering extensive undergraduate preparation for elementary education students. The department boasts of an "exemplary" early childhood education laboratory and a federally funded graduate studies program. Other special attributes include courses in outdoor education, and humane and environmental education workshops. In the near future, Thornton says students will have more realistic experiences in the classrooms through "interactive video" and "virtual reality" techniques. They will also be better prepared for profiting from their experience through reflective teaching techniques. The department's assistance to teachers will expand beyond the pre-service years to include assistance throughout the teacher's career by means of "dial-a-teacher" programs.

Thompson

Department of English and Philosophy

Dr. Patricia Russell

"If language and literature are your calling, and if you enjoy a department that has few enough majors so that you'll be known by name by many of your professors, this department is for you," says Dr. Patricia Read Russell, chairman of the English Department. She says the department embraces those students who are interested in studying with writers or with teachers "who have given their lives for the art." The English Department has hired four new assistants over the last two years, and faculty members "are excited about their work and the new ideas they have brought to us." The department expects more growth in the graduate program, REAL, and the Liberal Arts Journal. Dr. Russell says the new concern for philosophy is ethics.

Rossman

School of Forestry

Seale

Dr. Kent Adair

Considered one of the best forestry departments in the country, SFA's Forestry Department provides graduates with state-of-the-art equipment along with competent faculty members. In light of the increasing concerns for the environment, Dr. Kent Adair, Chairman of the Forestry Department, says the department provides graduates with the "skills and dedication required for nurturing forest life and improving, not merely protecting, the quality of life." An immediate goal of the School of Forestry is to improve the department by adding space-age technology in the realm of geographic information systems (GIS) and global positioning systems (GPS). "This space-age technology coupled with on-the-ground information will expand the ability of the department to provide an education that works for environmental improvement," Dr. Adair says.

Department of Geology

Wilson

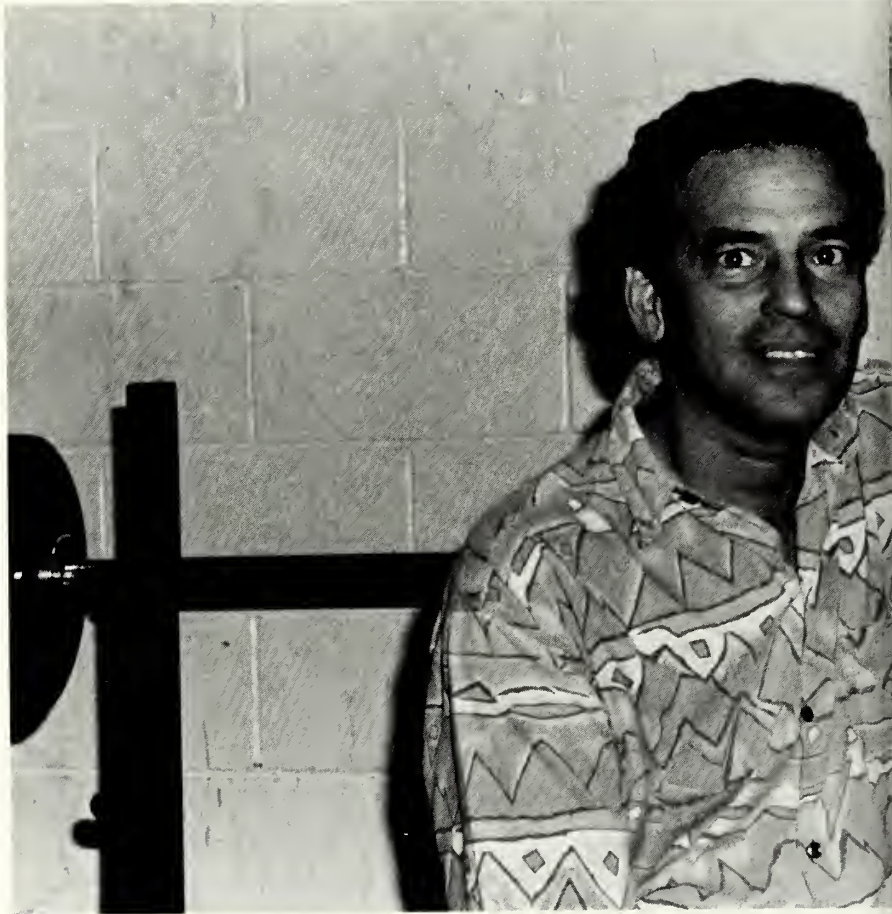

Dr. Carey Crocker

Dr. Carey Crocker, Chairman of the Geology Department, points out that his department offers geology students the special attention a large university cannot. "There's more opportunity for our students to work on a one-on-one basis, and my faculty are more innovative than similar schools," Dr. Crocker says. One of the new changes in the department this year includes the implementation of environmental emphasis in geology majors. Also, the department plans to expand its computer lab, and improve its water analysis lab by adding more instruments for analyzing chemicals. "Our immediate goal is to increase enrollment to where it was before the oil bust in 1986," Dr. Crocker says.

Department of Health and Kinesiology

Dr. Mel Finkenberg

Dr. Mel Finkenberg, Chairman of the Department of Health and Kinesiology, boasts that his department has an "excellent" reputation throughout the state. He said graduates from the department have had "exceptional" success in the field, particularly in the area of coaching. Also, many faculty members have been published extensively. The department recently acquired new equipment in the areas of exercise physiology and biomechanics which places it "on the cutting edge of technology." Dr. Finkenberg hopes to continue to develop the department's human performance laboratories which give students needed experience on contemporary technology.

Thompson

Department of History

Dr. Robert Mathis

Dr. Robert Mathis, Chairman of the Department of History, says the department has made ground-breaking progress to enhance the quality of education for history students. Progress has been made to bring outstanding scholars to SFA. In the spring of 1992, the History Department will inaugurate the Robert S. Maxwell Lectures and also present a one-week symposium on the 50th anniversary of World War II. Also, progress continues in the realm of computer use for teaching and for archival storage and retrieval. Plans for the department include; establishing an East Texas center for research and training, increasing support - mainly through the History and Development Fund - for student scholarships, teacher workshops, and faculty travel, and to cooperate with other departments in creating a strong undergraduate international studies program.

Seale

Department of Home Economics

Dr. Gloria Durr

Dr. Gloria Durr, Chairman of the Department of Home Economics, credits the faculty for striving "to create a positive image of the profession and to enhance public recognition of the impact of individuals and families in today's world." She says the department faces a continuing challenge to keep curricula strong and current, to respond to changing societal and economic conditions, and to recruit diverse student populations. "The number of faculty holding terminal degrees continues to rise, learning environments have been improved both aesthetically and functionally, and administrator's support for programs is positive." Home Economics offers programs of study in Child Development/Family, Interior Design, Fashion Merchandising, Food and Nutrition/Dietetics, Food Systems Management, and General Home Economics.

Department of Management and Marketing

Dr. Warren Fisher

Dr. Warren Fisher, Chairman of the Department of Management and Marketing, believes teachers should have a close relationship with professionals in the field of management and marketing in order to give students a better education. He plans to encourage more professional development from the faculty, including closer contact with their real-world counterparts. He says the department has significantly increased the use of computers and will continue that trend. The department has a "sound curriculum" with well-qualified faculty who care about their students.

Department of Mathematics and Statistics

Dr. Jasper Adams

Dr. Jasper Adams, Chairman of the Department of Mathematics and Statistics, has many plans for his department to keep abreast with the fast-paced advances in technology. This year, the Math Department has purchased several NeXT workstations. Also, plans are in motion to create a student computer laboratory, which will be used for computer aided instruction in the classroom. Goals for the department include increasing the number of permanent faculty, providing modern computers for all faculty, and modernizing the mathematics and statistics curricula. Dr. Adams believes mathematical sciences is one of the most exciting and promising career choices in terms of job security, job satisfaction, and salary potential. "Fewer people entering this field and the tremendous increase in technological applications in our daily lives have created serious shortages in this area at all levels of society."

Seale

Department of Military Science

Lt. Col. Van Ellis

Celebrating the 75th anniversary of Army R.O.T.C., Lt. Col. Van Ellis, head of the Military Department program, expects the newly formed SFA Ranger Challenge Team to finish first in Region Competition. Proud of his department, Lt. Col. Van Ellis says students have continued to receive quality training in all Military Science programs including R.O.T.C. "We have a small hands-on oriented program where students get more individual attention than they would from other schools," Lt. Col. Van Ellis said. "There is plenty of opportunity for students to excel in our program."

Bryan

Department of Modern Languages

Rossmann

Dr. James Moses

Dr. James Moses, Chairman of the Department of Modern Languages takes pride in the fact that every member of the faculty in the department is either a native speaker of the language he/she teaches or else has studied and traveled extensively in countries where the language is spoken. He added that no graduate assistants teach in the department. The department has recently updated the language laboratory with new equipment. There are three principle objectives the department emphasizes to its students: 1) to develop competence in understanding, speaking, reading, and writing a foreign language; 2) to cultivate an appreciation in the culture and civilization of the language being studied; and 3) to prepare the student for various job opportunities in language work.

Department of Music

Dr. Ronald Anderson

Celebrating his 22nd year in the Music Department, Dr. Ronald Anderson, chairman of the department, says faculty members and students continue to be active in music related events. This year, for example, SFA's band and choir ensemble will perform at the Meyerson Center in Dallas. The Music Department plans to conduct more than 100 concerts this year alone, he added. "Our major ensemble earned a national reputation, and it adds prestige to the department," Dr. Anderson said. Although the Music Department is noted for being a teacher training center, Dr. Anderson noted that a number of former students have gone on to pursue professional careers in music.

Department of Nursing

Dr. Beverly Robinson

Dr. Beverly Robinson, Chairman of the Department of Nursing, says the department is continuing to upgrade its facilities in order to meet the growing demand for nurses. The department recently added computer assisted instruction materials for student use. Dr. Robinson maintains that nursing students receive special attention because classrooms are small. Also, there was a 100 percent pass rate on the last two board exams. The curriculum of Nursing allows planning for each individual and is based on the belief that students are individuals with differing backgrounds, needs and interests. The curriculum plan includes courses in general education, science, humanities and a nursing core.

Wilson

Department of Physics and Astronomy

Dr. Harry Downing

Dr. Harry Downing, Chairman of the Department of Physics and Astronomy, says the department is continuing to expand its computer labs for science and engineering majors. He said the department recently began incorporating computer oriented labs in the introductory physics courses. "Students learn in an effective teaching environment because class sizes are small," he added. Research opportunities exist for both graduates and undergraduates. Dr. Downing says all students doing research in astronomy will get hands-on experience in using the department's telescope. Faculty changes in the department are expected too. "As the university stabilizes in enrollment, we expect our department to reach a maximum level of growth in students and faculty," Dr. Downing said. "We expect some staff changes in the next three years since three of our faculty will fully retire within this time period."

Wilson

As long as government remains big business in the country and the world, opportunities for serious and ambitious students will be immense. Dr. Gregory says the department continues to grow. Recently, the department received new geographic information systems equipment. Also, five new faculty members were added to the department in the last five years. The department offers degrees in political science, geography, and public administration. Some opportunities for a student with an undergraduate degree in political science includes diplomatic, civil and military service careers, law school, service careers, teaching, executive positions in the United States and abroad, law school, journalism, and other post-graduate professional training.

The Pre-Professional program provides many services for these students including orientation, providing information and applications for various professional schools, and arranging campus conferences.

Department of Psychology

Dr. Heinz Gaylord

Dr. Heinz Gaylord, Chairman of the Department of Psychology, listed two major benefits students receive from the department. First, all psychology majors are assigned to a permanent faculty advisor assuring continuity and access in the academic advising process. Second, students, with the assistance of their academic advisor, can put together a bachelor degree in psychology that will provide them with highly marketable skills in the field of psychology. The psychology program has added a senior level Cognitive Psychology course with a laboratory, and made additions and renovations in other areas of experimental psychology. "These material enhancements coupled with an improvement of the undergraduate core curriculum, which includes reducing class size and upgrading prerequisites, should lead to a stronger bachelor degree in psychology better preparing students for entry into psychology graduate programs or careers in industry, information sciences, human services, and human factors among others," Dr. Gaylord said.

Rossman

Dr. William Heeney, Chairman of the Department of Secondary Education, is proud of the department's recent accomplishments. This year signaled the full implementation of the 18-hour professional development program, and the faculty is receiving the support needed to be innovative, Dr. Heeney said. Also, a team teaching approach was utilized this year to deliver the secondary school instruction course. Currently, the department is preparing to set in motion a strategic planning process to establish its program's needs for the next five years. "This process includes the exploration of a new collaborative training model for preservice teachers, inservice teachers, and administrators," Dr. Heeney said. "The department is proud of its additions to the faculty and the fact that all faculty members have computers in their offices."

Every faculty member has a computer, and the computer is integrated into the curriculum. The department conducts student exit interviews to get feedback for program development. A new gerontology coordinator was added to the staff, and a new gerontology program is expected to be added to the curriculum.

Department of Theatre

Dr. Clarence Bahs

The Department of Theatre produces 25-30 productions per year including the extensive student-directed programs. The department boasts a summer workshop program which produces three revolving works. Age groups were included as a condition of the president and vice-president's employment.

Last fall he ended at home. The meeting began at 7:00 p.m. and continued until a decision was made by the group.

Reaction to the firing of Stephen Austin President Dr. Donald H. ... on the campus community ... ranged from shock to a feeling that the board of regents had made a terrible mistake.

Members of the SFA community returned for the Spring Semester to find a major change in university administration. Dr. Donald E. Bowen, SFA's fifth president, was fired in mid-December after nearly six hours of deliberation by members of the University's Board of Regents meeting in closed session.

A statement released by the board gave no specific reason for Dr. Bowen's termination, saying only that the move was "in the best interests of the University." The called meeting began immediately after Fall Commencement.

The board named Dr. William J. Brophy, dean of the School of Liberal Arts since 1986, as interim president. Dr. Brophy told a local newspaper he felt good about taking the position and that he hoped he could proceed with the primary mission of the University, which is to educate students. A graduate of North Texas State University and Vanderbilt University, he began teaching history at SFA in 1964. He is characterized by Dr. Edward Gaston, retired vice president for academic affairs, as "very energetic and very dedicated to academic ideals."

Dr. Bowen's firing came on the heels of several weeks of rumor and speculation that a change was in the works. His final act as president was conferring degrees at graduation ceremonies, where he received a standing ovation from students and faculty. Earlier in the week, both the SFA Faculty Senate and Student Government Association had passed resolutions giving the president a vote of confidence.

Dr. William J. Brophy
